

Environmental Engineering Faculty jobs in Bahrain

The department of Environmental Engineering at University of Technology Bahrain is pleased to invite applications for faculty positions at the Assistant and Associate Professor levels in the area of Environmental Engineering. The successful candidate with diverse teaching and research interests are encouraged to apply. The College is especially interested in candidates that can collaborate strategically with current expertise within the department and college.

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR AND ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR

- Must be highly efficient in teaching and research for at least 2 years
- Must have published works in academic journals/books
- Must have broad knowledge in the following areas: unit operations; contaminants of emerging concern (CECs); analytical detection, sensing, and monitoring; physical-chemical or biological treatment of water and wastewater; transformations of contaminants in the environment; water reuse; modelling of water and environmental systems, and resource recovery
- Must have technical profile and portfolio of research application within an industrial application domain
- The successful candidate must have an academic background to teach undergraduate courses in environmental engineering in the Environmental Engineering curriculum. A Ph.D. in, or closely related to Environmental Engineering is required.